

Hempstead Has Sizeable Loss in Population

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Saline County gained 1,169 residents between 1950 and 1960, census figures showed Monday.

The county gained from 27,650 to 28,819, and Benton, the county seat, gained from 10,137 to 10,330.

Nine other counties in the 6th Congressional District, which have reported have shown losses.

The report on Hempstead County showed a drop from 25,169 in 1950 to 24,579 in 1960; Nevada dropped from 14,795 to 14,040.

Garland, Jefferson, and Hot Springs counties all in the 6th District, are the only ones in Arkansas which have not completed their census.

Complete preliminary figures show North Little Rock has replaced Fort Smith as Arkansas second largest city.

Fort Smith gained 4,513 residents between 1950 and 1960, but lost 7,504 since a special 1957 census. North Little Rock gained 11,189 between 1950 and 1960.

North Little Rock has 55,286 residents in the 1960 census to 52,455 for Fort Smith.

Fort Smith recorded 59,959 in 1957.

Arkansas' 3rd Congressional District, of which Fort Smith is a part, lost 20,132 residents between 1950 and 1960.

The 6th District was the only one still incomplete when the Census Bureau reported that Arkansas' population dropped 6.3 percent from 1950, the highest percentage loss in the nation.

With all but four counties reported, Arkansas' 1960 population was 1,596,580, a loss of 144,757 over 1950.

Sebastian and Washington counties were the only ones in the 3rd Congressional District gaining population. Sebastian gained from 64,202 to 66,065 and Washington gained from 49,079 in 1950 to 54,362 this year.

The 3rd district lost from 324,201 to 295,991. Counties losing population were Baxter, from 11,683 to 9,887; Benton, from 10,137 to 9,887; Boone, from 16,260 to 15,962; Carroll from 13,244 to 11,219; Crawford from 22,727 to 21,139; Franklin from 12,358 to 10,158; Johnson from 16,138 to 12,290; Logan from 20,260 to 15,844; Madison from 11,734 to 8,960; Marion, from 8,609 to 6,015; Newton, from 6,685 to 5,884; Searcy, from 10,241 to 8,065; Scott, from 10,057 to 7,241; Van Buren, from 9,087 to 7,069.

Winrock Sale Nets $171,550

WINROCK FARM, Ark. (AP)—Forty-two head of Santa Gertrudis cattle sold for a total of $171,550 Saturday at Winrock Farm's annual sale.

L. A. Nordan of the 711 Ranch, San Antonio, Tex., paid a record $16,200 for a two-year-old bull. It was the highest ever paid at a Winrock sale. Previous high was $11,000.

Winthrop Rockefeller owns the farm, atop Petit Jean Mountain near Morrilton.

Accidents in Arkansas Claim 10

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Weekend traffic accidents claimed 10 lives, boosting to 26 the total number of violent deaths in Arkansas in the week ending at midnight yesterday.

Altogether, 15 died in traffic accidents, three died in fires, four were shot to death, three drowned and one man was killed in a logging accident.

Mark Yount and Jerry Moore, both 18 and both of Hardy, died Saturday night when their car struck a parked truck east of Hardy on Highway 63. Joe Higginbotham, 17, a passenger in the car driven by Yount, was injured.

Carroll Manning, 49, of Hoxie, drowned after his truck plunged off a bridge on a rural road near Alicia Saturday, pinning him underwater.

Charlie Jones Jr., 50, a Negro, of Camden, was fatally injured in a one-car accident in Camden Saturday.

Roscoe Lennix, 27, a Negro, of Ashdown, was killed Saturday when his car struck a tree on a rural road near Ashdown.

Thomas Priest, 23, of Cash, was killed when his car crashed with a pickup truck, then crashed into a tractor-trailer truck near Tuckerman Saturday. The truck was driven by Henry Butler Jr. of Fort Worth, Tex.

Lowell Presley Baker, 18, of Benton Harbor, Mich., was killed Sunday in a one-car accident on a rural road 10 miles south of Leachville.

Roscoe Clay, 26, Negro, was shot to death Sunday at his home in Little Rock. A Negro woman, Dimple Matheny, 30, was held on an open charge. She said the shot was fired accidentally.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—City Manager Dean I. Dauley said today the city is in favor of a grand jury investigation into charges made last week by a cafe owner regarding the police department's close watch on his place of business.

Attorney Gene Worsham, who represents Walter McBride, owner of the Playhouse Cafe, raised the possibility of a grand jury probe Saturday.

Police records show 21 arrests made last year in the vicinity of the cafe. McBride was fined $109 last week for selling beer to a minor.

At the trial, Worsham charged that the police department had been ordered to close McBride's place of business.

$20,000 Plant Fire Sunday

HOPE (AP)—A fire destroyed a $20,000 plant here Sunday. The fire broke out in the early morning hours and spread rapidly, consuming the building and its contents.

The plant, owned by the Hope Brick Co., was used for the production of bricks. The fire was caused by a faulty electrical connection.

The fire destroyed a large portion of the plant's inventory, including thousands of bricks. The damage was estimated at $20,000.

The Hope Brick Co. is a local manufacturing company. The plant was one of the largest in the area.

The fire was reported by a worker at the plant. Firefighters arrived quickly but were unable to save the building.

The plant was built in 1955 and had a capacity of 100,000 bricks per week. The fire was a significant blow to the company.

4th in Race for Governor Opens Drive

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hal Millsap Jr., the last man into the governor's race, started his campaign tour by bus today.

With him were a group of backers and entertainers.

Harrison was billed as the first major stop for the governor and oil dealer, who is one of four men trying to unseat Gov. Orval B. Faubus.

After Harrison, the "bandwagon" crew planned to continue on toward east Arkansas.

The campaign bus includes a kitchen, office, caucus area and storage space.

Millsap said he would visit "every town and hamlet" before the July 26 Democratic primary.

Joe C. Hardin, another Faubus opponent, resumed personal visits today at Pine Bluff, where he started out last week.

He planned to take his handshaking to the International Paper Co. and the Cotton Belt railroad shops before returning to Little Rock headquarters on Wednesday.

Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett said he was "shaking hands at the grass roots level" in the southwestern section of the state.

H. E. Williams remained in Little Rock, where he has opened headquarters.

Faubus, who is seeking an unprecedented fourth term, stayed at his office.

Faubus, who isn't formally campaigning yet, has an appearance scheduled before the Arkansas Pharmaceutical Assn. tomorrow night.

He then plans a couple of days fishing in east Arkansas. He will dedicate a State hospital building at Little Rock Thursday and speak at a police organization meeting at Pine Bluff Friday night.

Bennett, Williams and Hardin made fresh attacks on Faubus Saturday.

In the new round of charges, Bennett hit at the governor on operation of the State Police. Hardin called the fourth term "the prime issue of this campaign" and Williams accused Faubus of contributing to the state's decline in population.

Bennett contended State Police morale was low, partly because seniority had been disregarded in promotions and partly because of an alleged cut in troopers' expenses which Bennett blasted earlier.

Hardin said a fourth term for Faubus, who now is serving his third term, would defeat the safeguards of staggered terms on state boards and commissions.

Williams said Faubus helped bring about the drop in population "by the instability of government and constant agitation of social problems."

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court today voided a law to permit residents in dry areas to legalize the package sale of beer.

The court, with one dissent, said the 1957 act was invalid because it didn't receive the two-thirds legislative majority necessary to amend an initiated act — the 1942 local option law.

The lawsuit grew out of an attempt at West Crossett to legalize the sale of beer to be consumed away from the premises where it was sold.

Ashley County, of which West Crossett is a part, is dry.

The Ashley County Election Commission first voted to place the issue on the ballot at the 1958 general election, but later two of the three members attempted to rescind the action.

Ovid T. Switzer of Crossett, the third commissioner, contended the decision could not be rescinded and had a typewritten sticker prepared for use in the election.

Of those who voted by use of the sticker, a majority favored the beer sale.

Khrushchev Rescinds Invitation to Ike to Visit in Russia

Says Russia Ruined Summit Meet Purposely

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas accused Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev today of deliberately breaking up the summit conference.

Johnson took the position in a statement that the Soviet Premier had merely adopted the U2 American spy plane incident as a "subterfuge to avoid 'orderly negotiation.'"

The locomotive that had labored against mountain grade since leaving Helena, hooted at Signal as it came, and Riley Buckner stirred on his bed of scooped-up straw. Through the slatted sides of this empty cattle car the wind poured cold, and he wished he had a sheepskin coat.

He coughed as the cinder-laden smoke billowed back. Fine riding for a saddleman! But outside, where the hills of land dimly discerned in the night, and he was sure he smelled pine and spruce, and by faint moonlight he glimpsed the high-piled cantour of Table Mountain, homesickness

Science Shrinks Piles
New Way Without Surgery
Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all — results were thorough that sufferers made astounding statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H. At your druggist, Money back guarantee.

town really. He had seen Signal first as a mining town, and there were many a deserted shaft in the hills and many a small mining town. Later he'd known Signal as a cowtown, and in the sweeping valley to the west, the still rang. He could name every occupant in the dark houses among which they were threaded, save for the changes of the five years, which would be few. Good folks, all of them, but lost to him now, he supposed.

Like Dorcas. They had turned into an alley and were passing the high board fence behind Maw Lane's place, the old frame structure the widow had bought when her general store had attained something approximating prosperity. Dorcas, dwell in that house—Dorcas and her sister Pru and the widow, their mother. Remembering, his pulse leaped.

At the alley's far end they came to the back door of a building which he knew was the Frontier Bar. That filled. Spence Rigby owned the place. But the rest of it still didn't make sense—Spence commanding service from Hatchet hands.

The door opened to a small room, blue with tobacco smoke, and sour with the smell of the beer kegs piled along one wall. A roll-top desk against another wall made this an office. Two men were here. They sat at a round table, the shade drawn on the one window, a lamp burning on the table, and a map of the county spread before them. Buckner knew both men. They were Spence Rigby and Sam Tull, Hatchet foreman. They looked up, showing surprise.

"Ry Buckner!" Rigby said and stood up, hand extended. "Home from stony lonesome, huh? We heard you were out."

Buckner looked straight at Rigby and ignored the proffered hand. Rigby had put on weight. The man had too much belly sagging over his cartridge belt and too much bourbon flush on his round and wide-mouthed face. Spence must be pushing 45 now. Gambler's black only made him look gross, and the string tie seemed to choke him.

"What's on your mind, Spence?" he asked. Rigby let his hand fall but kept his smile. "Bench made boots," he observed. "Probably out of a second-hand store, but good ones. Pants, shirt, coat, hat — the kind a rider would wear. You did yourself pretty proud, Ry, on the $10 they gave you when they let you through the big gate."

"If it's any of your business," Buckner said, "I worked a month in Helena after I left Deer Lodge. It gave me a stake."

Rufe York, standing behind Buckner, said, "He must a jumped from the freight. We figured him to climb on when we spotted him, though. Same height and frame. Nobody tried makin' that train, Spence. We wasted our time. We're wastin' more now. Why ain't we hittin' saddles?"

"Soon, Rufe," Rigby said. "Soon." Buckner said, "Rufe thought we should palaver. He was wrong. I've got nothing to say to you."

Rigby shook his head. "Things have changed, Ry. No need of that chip on your shoulder. I could use you, and I reckon you could use a job. How you feeling about Duke Jordan these days?"

He saw the eagerness in Rigby's squinted eyes. He could guess now how the mistake had been made at the depot. "Same height and frame," Rufe York had said. Duke and he were both six-foot-two and of the same build — shouldered, lean — hipped build. Could have been Duke if he thought they'd seen. But Duke didn't hop freights, and even if he chose to do so, why would Hatchet be trying to stop him?

Spence Rigby's question still hung in the air. Buckner frowned at Rigby.

"Look Spence, I haven't got all night to stand here jawing," he said. "So I'm going to spell it out slow and plain and final. When I drew Boxed J pay, that made me an enemy of Hatchet. I sided the Jordans against Lark Rigby in their squabbles over that strip of land between them. That was one thing. You were another. When I left here, Lark wasn't speaking to you, his own brother. He had the same measure of you that everybody had — a cheap saloonman selling watered whisky and fleecing cowboys with marked decks. If you and Lark have made peace since and he's taken you in as some kind of partner, that's his bad luck. But I want no part of you or any proposition you've got to make."

Jonesboro Youth
Driving Champ
MORRILTON, Ark. (AP) — Lloyd Tucker, 17, of Jonesboro, is the Arkansas state Junior Chamber of Commerce driving Road-E-Q champion.

He topped 38 other local winners representing 25 towns in the state contest Saturday. His victory earned him a trip to the national teen-age Road-E-Q in Washington, D. C., in August.

Lloyd Brown of Trumann was second and Ray Chastain of De Witt was third.

Porkers Show
Passes in Final Game

By WICK TEMPLE

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Razorbacks wound up spring training Saturday night with an aerial circus-type intrasquad game at War Memorial Stadium.

The white team beat the Red, 21-18, on a late 60-yard punt return by sophomore halfback Jim Worthington of Prescott.

The score and even who played on which team will be forgotten by the time the Hogs take the field for fall practice. But the game may have heralded a general Arkansas trend for the 1960 Southwest Conference football race.

Three quarterbacks — three 40 passes Saturday night, completing 16 of them. This does not necessarily mean that the Porkers will be a passing team this fall. It does mean that Arkansas probably will be much stronger in this department, especially with four veteran ends and several promising youngsters to do the catching.

With All-America halfback Jim Mooney gone, the Razorbacks are going to have to alter their belly-wing offense to provide more variety. They'll still have punch in the middle with such as halfbacks Paul Dudley and Lance Alworth and fullbacks Joe Paul, Al Bert and Curtis Cox.

But Coach Frank Broyles hopes to work the ends more with his quarterbacks on rollouts this year. Also, all three quarterbacks who will see varsity action are creditable passers.

Ten lettermen who probably will make up the bulk of the first unit in the fall SAT and spring training and the intra-squad contest. This move was to give the youngsters a chance to show what they could do without having to compete with the veterans.

Saturday night's game was a wide-open, roll-out pass affair after a somewhat dull first quarter. Broyles, who sat in the press box and grimaced through the first period, instructed his assistants to move their quarterbacks to the side and "pass on every down" in the second period.

The pattern produced six touchdowns, four of them on passes, and 275 yards worth of passing yardage.

The firing line consisted of George McKinney of the White team, who hit for one touchdown on a 32-yard pass to Dudley; Billy Moore of the Red team, who hit halfback Darrell Williams with a 33-yard paydirt and end M. H. Levine with a four-yard scoring pass; and Sonny Holmes of the White team, who tossed to end Jerry Humphreys for seven yards and a score.

Broyles was impressed with their work. McKinney probably has the first unit job nailed down, but Moore and Holmes probably will see much action on both the first and Wild Hog outflits.

Moore and Dudley were the real offensive stars. Moore completed nine of 23 passes for 152 yards and led ground gainers with 61 yards on 12 tries. Dudley gained 37 rushing, 77 on pass receptions and 100 on kickoff returns.

Dudley received a trophy at halftime for the "most improved player" in spring practice.

McKinney completed six of 15 passes for 116 yards. Holmes' only completion was his touchdown

Disabled Vets
Elect Officers

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Cecil Stevenson of Jonesboro was elected commander of the Arkansas Department of the Disabled American Veterans yesterday at the close of a convention here.

Other officers include: Connie Dilday of De Witt, Thomas Nabholz of Conway, Joe Steward of Pine Bluff, Joe Berry of Fort Smith and Vance Hickman of Harrison, all vice commanders.

Worthington, the shiny little sophomore back, picked up 48 yards on 12 tries to lead the White team in rushing.

Moore moved the Red 65 yards after a first quarter punt to score on the bullet to Levine with 10:38 left in the half. Worthington's 12-yard punt return gave the Whites the ball on their 41 a few minutes later and Holmes moved in eight plays for the score, passing to Humphreys. Mickey Cissell kicked the first of three extra points that actually provided the winning point, spread.

In the third quarter, Jimmy Collier recovered a Red fumble on the Red 29 and McKinney tossed 32 yards to Dudley for the touchdown.

Harold Horton recovered a fumbled punt for the Red team deep in the third quarter and Moore pushed 26 yards in nine plays for the score. Darrell Williams punched over from the one.

After the kickoff sophomore halfback Jesse Branch intercepted McKinney's pass and on first down Moore threw 33 yards to Williams for the Red score, making it 18-14.

Then came Worthington's game-winning punt return.

Judges in Annual Conference

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Judges of the Eight U. S. Judicial District began their annual conference here today behind closed doors.

This is normal procedure for the judges. The only persons attending besides the 30 judges were 12 U. S. District Attorneys and some members of the Executive Committee of the Arkansas Bar Assn.

It is the first such conference to be held in Arkansas.

Judge Harvey M. Johnson of Omaha, Neb., chief judge of the Eighth Circuit, is presiding. James R. Browning, clerk of the U. S. Supreme Court, will speak at a banquet tonight. Judge John E. Miller of Fort Smith gave the welcoming address.

The conference continues through Wednesday.

pointed a distinctive blue with the front side finished in ceramic tile.

The interior is air conditioned with asphalt tile floors and fluorescent lighting. The building is designed for future expansion which can be made without destroying the overall effect.

Mr. Jones indicated that the Hope building and facilities were more than adequate to serve the needs of Hope, in applicants seeking work, claimants and employers seeking help.

The public at large is invited to visit the new ESD building at anytime and an openhouse and visitors day for employers and industry planned for the near future.

The Hope ESD office serves as a district office for four counties in Southwest Arkansas according to Mr. Jones, serving Hempstead, Howard, Lafayette and Nevada.

In addition to Mr. Jones, the Hope staff is manned by J. T. Bowden, interviewer; Paul McClellan, employer relations representative; Herman Smith, claims interviewer; Ruth Edwards, clerk and Francis Sue Sommerville, stenographer. A. B. Martin mans the Farm Placement Information Station and Rest Stop on Highway 67 west, near city limits, which is also under the supervision of the Hope ESD office.

Coming and Going

Mrs. Lloyd Spencer and Mrs. Vincent Foster went to Virginia last week, where Mrs. Spencer visited the Bruce Gutwald family in Richmond and Mrs. Foster visited her daughter Shelia, in Lynchburg where she is a student at Randolph Macon College.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Fuller went to Ft. Worth Friday, for the graduation of their son, "Barky" from the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Mrs. Wade O'Neal of Woodward, Okla. is visiting relatives here. She is the former Pauline Sanford of Hope.

Escapee Is Back Facing Burglary

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — George Thorne, who walked out of the Pulaski County Jail last week while posing as his cellmate, walked back in today to face burglary and grand larceny charges.

The 21-year-old North Little Rock man was being held in connection with the theft of a safe. His cellmate, Leo Freeman, was being held on a drunk charge.

Thorne told Sheriff L. C. Young that he won $22 playing poker with other inmates.

While Freeman slept, Thorne called the jailer, told him he was Freeman, and asked to be allowed to make bond.

Thorne paid a $17.50 bond in Freeman's name and stepped to freedom.

The rest of his story went like this:

He hopped a train for St. Louis and spent a week selling shampoo on street corners. Then a friend, who had stayed with him, went to Little Rock and informed authorities of Thorne's whereabouts.

St. Louis police began looking for him, Thorne said, so he hopped another train for Shreveport, where he stayed for two days.

Then, he said, he got tired of running and returned to Little Rock to give himself up.

He said he surrendered on the advice of his mother and his attorney.

Thorne was returned to jail but no further charges were placed against him immediately.

Declares Gypsies Took His 31,850

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP)—C. D. Skaggs of Paragould said his wallet containing $31,850 disappeared Saturday during a visit by two women whom he described as "gypsies."

Skaggs told police the women came to his home and asked for a drink of water. He said he and his wife gave them water, then the women put their hands on the Skaggs and said, "The Lord will bless you and cure you."

Then the women drove away.

DOROTHY DIX

Divided Between Two Opinions

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I am a girl of 24. Four years ago I fell in love with a boy two years younger. He never touched me the way other boys do but we loved each other very much. My mother said he was my first boy friend — so wait, I waited. This boy's parents returned to the West Coast. Mom said, "What is the use of continuing your romance when he is so far away? Stop him from writing to you!"

Not long after this boy's sister told me another girl tricked him into marrying her. He got in trouble and is now in jail. He has two children, one doesn't belong to him. I signed a form giving my permission for him to write me. The authorities said his wife disapproved. Christmas was the only time I could hear from him. I lived all year just for that.

Recently I met a young man of 31. We've been dating ever since. He would like to marry me. Memory of my first boy friend keeps coming back. Three days ago I got a letter from him wanting to know if I'll really wait for him.

The 31-year-old boy never married. However, he once lived with a woman but has no children. He isn't working right now. We sit in the car and talk. Sometimes we get carried away. He says no matter what I do he will never break with me.

We plan to get engaged in August and marry in late November. Do you think it will work out?

Please advise me on my prison and my 31-year-old boy. Which shall I take? — Faithful Reader

Dear Faithful Reader: You ask me to decide your future — something I would not do if I could. Only you are qualified. Frankly, neither boy seems a likely candidate; one being in prison, as well as married; the other out of a job. Listen to the inner voice of conscience. See if it doesn't tell you to forget them both and go on with your life.

Dear Dorothy Dix:

My girl friend has a boy who lives in another state. They are in love. Her father thinks him nice but her grandmother doesn't. They write back and forth. She wants to become a missionary nurse but she could never forget him. The only way out we can think of is for them to run away and get married. What should she do? She will thank you for her help. Love — Linda

Dear Linda: The best thing your girl friend can do is to talk all this over with her father. Since he is sympathetic I am sure he will counsel her wisely. Is the boy capable of supporting a family? How well is she equipped to be a wife? Can she keep house, cook and budget? Pros and cons, these factors could heavily influence the marriage. Is it to be lasting? Tell her for me to count 10 before she elopes — then don't! Read my leaflets, "Puppy Love," and "Hasty Marriage."

Dear Dorothy Dix: What is one to do in a situation such as this? An engagement was broken quite close to time of wedding. Ex-fiance appearing and demands not only ring but gifts for home bride paid for. A clock she bought, etc.

Never having heard of or face such a dilemma, I am unable to advise my daughter. It took this 10-point out the colossal selfishness and smallness of his character and personality. If only girls would confide and trust in wiser judgment, how much heartache they might spare themselves.

Dear Dorothy Dix: If either you or your daughter deal personally with the young man, there's liable to be trouble. Ask a friend to return the ex-fiance's gifts bill — only those for which he paid.

Send your problem to DOROTHY DIX. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and address her in care of this newspaper.

undertaken again were not immediately made clear. But informed Western officials said he began his efforts to get the guarantee when he met with De Gaulle and later Macmillan Sunday.

Communist sources said that Khrushchev had asked a public expression of regret from Eisenhower for the U2 flight of May 1 and other intrusions of Soviet air space. There was no Western confirmation of this.

The conference lasted from 11:01 a. m. until 2:00 p. m. The first one to leave the meeting was Khrushchev. He descended the steps of the palace and appeared to be smiling slightly.

The next to leave was Eisenhower. He was smiling broadly as he strode down the stairway but as he entered his car the smile vanished from his face, giving way to a serious expression.

Macmillan was the last out. He was smiling and thoughtful as he marched down the steps and got into his car.

Officials reported Khrushchev had made insulting remarks and demanded at today's meeting. They also asserted the Kremlin chief flatly withdrew his invitation for Eisenhower to go to Moscow. The visit had been scheduled for today for a uled for 10 days starting June 10.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

PARIS (AP) — The Big Four summit conference opens today under the threat of an explosion between President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev over U. S. spy flights across Soviet territory.

The leaders of the world's two great nuclear powers confronted each other in the sprawling, ornate Elysee Palace, official residence of France's president.

The meeting so laboriously arranged to begin East-West peace making could easily erupt into a new cold war battle, wrecking already faint hopes for some accord on disarmament and German issues.

French President Charles de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan were making strenuous efforts to prevent a diplomatic debacle. The outcome seemed to depend primarily on Khrushchev, and he was reported in an angry mood.

Senior Western diplomats expected Khrushchev, using the American flights over the Soviet Union as a springboard, to wage an all-out assault on America's role in military losses around the Soviet Union.

These sources said Khrushchev would make abandonment of the bases the price for Soviet agreement to steps toward disarmament.

Eisenhower had Macmillan as his breakfast guest today for a

Cardwell Hurls No Hitter for Chicago Cubs

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

Don Cardwell is a shining example of the old baseball cliché that a change of uniform is good for a man now and then.

Unable to last more than six innings for the Philadelphia Phillies who traded him Friday, the 24-year-old right-hander came through with a no-hitter, no-run game Sunday, in his first start as a Chicago Cub.

Cardwell retired the first hitter, walked Alex Grammas on a 3-2 pitch and then set down 26 St. Louis Cardinals in succession en route to his 4-0 victory.

It was the first no-hitter in the National League since Sal Maglie of the Dodgers, then Brooklyn, threw one against the Phillies in the waning days of the 1956 pennant race.

Pittsburgh's Harvey Haddix pitched 12 perfect innings last year only to give up a hit and lose the game to Milwaukee in the 13th. The last American League no-hitter was pitched by Hoyt Wilhelm of Baltimore against New York, Sept. 20, 1958.

Cardwell's only previous 1960 win was in relief against Milwaukee. He had lost to Pittsburgh and Milwaukee and failed to go the route in four starts. Over the years he has had only fair success in the majors, never getting up to the .500 mark for a full season.

In the ninth pinch hitter Carl Sawatski slammed a long drive to right field that George Altman caught against the wall. With two out and a 3-2 count on Joe Cunningham, the batter hit a low liner to left which Walt Moryn grabbed for a shoestring catch.

Cardwell's dramatic performance in the second game came after St. Louis finally had won its first game on the road. The Cards' 6-1 decision in the opener with the help of two home runs by Ken Boyer broke a 12-game losing streak away from home.

Orlando Cepeda's two-run triple in the eighth gave first-place San Francisco a 2-0 decision over Los Angeles. Johnny Antonelli allowed row were built or designed by A. J. Watson of Glendale, Calif., who has created three winners in past Indianapolis races.

Sachs, who has never finished in three 500 starts, also set a new one-lap record of 147.251 miles an hour after Rathmann had held it temporarily at 146.915.

Engine trouble—a dropped valve and scored cylinder—kept Johnny Thomson of Boyertown, Pa., from earning a starting spot up front in Saturday's trials.

In the close fraternity of auto racing, a dozen top-notch mechanics rebuilt Thomson's engine overnight, and the Little Scot qualified Sunday with the third-best average of 146.443. He also turned in the second 147 m.p.h. lap in speedway history.

Tony Bettenhausen of Tinley Park, Ill., twice national big car champion, also had mechanical trouble Saturday after turning some of the fastest practice laps but qualified Sunday at 145.214.

Says Economy Growth Is a Weapon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) said today the nation's economic growth provides President Eisenhower with what he called "a secret weapon" for the summit conference opening in Paris.

Scott referred to the fact that the gross national product, the total of all goods and services, reached an annual rate of $500,200,000,000 for the first quarter of this year.

He said this was secret only in the sense that announcement of it last week had been obscured by recent explosive international developments.

He said in a prepared Senate speech that it was a weapon in the sense "that it helps our people to wage peace as it would help our nation to wage war." Never before in history, said Scott, has a gross national product of half a trillion dollars been approached by any country. "No other nation has achieved even half this level," he said.

Calls for Meeting

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Rev. Dominique Georges Pire, O.P., 1958 winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, advocates a meeting of No-

Insurance Group to Meet Here

Jess P. Odum, president of The National Investors Life Insurance

Company of Arkansas has announced that a meeting for the Hempstead and Howard Counties stockholders and contract holders of the Life Company and Hempstead and Howard Counties stockholders of its affiliated company, Associated Investors Securities, Inc., will be held Tuesday, May 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the Hope National Guard Armory in Hope.

He said the public is invited to attend this meeting, as it is felt that many Hempstead and Howard County citizens would be interested in learning how "Arkansas-owned corporations" were organized and how they had achieved their phenomenal success of today and future plans.

Several officers and representatives of the two companies will accompany Mr. Odum to Hope for the meeting. Remarks will be made by Elmer Brown, Ted V. Jones, Ernest Morrison, Lott Graves and John Shaddock. There will be local entertainment by the Mitchell Family and refreshments will be served.
